Alles zum Standort

LOCATION Heempark De Braak was built in the late 1930s, together with the Amsterdamse Bos. The plan was to build attractive villas and luxury homes in a green environment for people who wanted to live just outside Amsterdam. The park was inspired by the vision and ideas of biologist and conservationist Dr. Jack. P. Thijsse. The location of this house is unique and breathtaking, with open and unobstructed views of the park, which has been a national monument since 2011. The villa offers plenty of privacy and is located close to both the centres of Amstelveen and Amsterdam. One of the entrances to the Amsterdamse Bos is located directly opposite the house. There is a very wide range of sports fields and sports clubs nearby. There are also many shops on the Amsterdamseweg for daily shopping, including supermarkets, butchers and bakers. The old village has a number of cozy bars and good restaurants. Highways A9 and A10 can be reached by car within a few minutes. You can reach Schiphol in 15 minutes by public transport or by car. Primary and secondary schools are within walking and cycling distance. Within walking distance, also on De Braak pond, is Amity International School.
