A first impression

There are places where you immediately feel a very special energy. Places that cast a spell over you and don't let go. Places where you have never been before and yet immediately feel at home. Such a unique place of power is "Arboris": a modern-alpine retreat by the larch forest, on a sunny high plateau in South Tyrol's southwest. Near the golf course, on the edge of a quiet residential area, the unique project is being built. Two comfortable villas with private gardens nestle in an enchanting forest. A wellness loggia with panoramic sauna is integrated into the garden of each villa. The construction is characterized by a lot of privacy, light-flooded rooms with generous window areas, high construction quality and high-quality turnkey equipment.

All about the location

Only half an hour's drive above the provincial capital of Bolzano lies at 1380 m the idyllic village of Petersberg. If you are looking for tranquility and unspoiled nature, enjoy the chirping of birds and the scent of the forest, and love clear, fresh mountain air, you will feel at home in Petersberg - without having to do without any comfort. Against the grandiose backdrop of the Dolomite mountains Rosengarten, Latemar, Weißhorn and Schwarzhorn, nature lovers, hikers and winter sports enthusiasts will find a paradise of opportunities to indulge their passions. The golfer's heart also beats faster here: in the midst of the impressively beautiful landscape lies the 18-hole golf course Petersberg.
