A first impression

This property characterized by modern architectural design is an outstanding example of advanced technological integration in the business environment. Located on the second and top floor of a building constructed in 2002, it occupies an area of approximately 660 square meters and includes offices, meeting rooms, and conference rooms. The facility features an open layout with d'Este terracotta floors, custom-made furniture, and removable plasterboard ceilings to facilitate maintenance of facilities. Every aspect is designed and built to embrace the challenges and opportunities of the modern world. The highlight in this technological property is definitely its KNX home automation system: every corner, every room is connected in a symphony of intelligent automation. Lights adapt to the environment, following the natural flow of outdoor light, and automatically turn off when not needed. Alarms and security systems work in tandem, ensuring the peace of mind of its inhabitants. The media room with a Dolby system and a ceiling-mounted projector turns every presentation into a cinematic experience. A Crestron control system manages audio, video, and lighting equipment. The heating and cooling system, powered by a Climaveneta chiller, is a mastery of engineering. Fan coils in the suspended ceilings spread tailored comfort in each room, controlled by a central computer or independently adjustable. Attention to technological detail is also evident in the windows. Automatic sunshades adjust to outside light, rising and falling gracefully, while silver microperforated blinds maintain an outside view without compromising interior comfort. The entire property is designed with lots of technological precision, from individually sensed consumption management to a condominium elevator with controlled access reflecting a focus on safety. Four parking spaces complete the property and others can be rented. There are additional parking opportunities in the forecourt in front of the building, which is in common use, and along the entire length of Copernico Street. A public car park is located 300 metres from the building. In an increasingly digitized world, these offices embody the harmony between technology and work environment, offering a state-of-the-art professional experience in every aspect.
