All about the location

Petra, a village in the heart of Mallorca, offers a unique blend of culture, history and natural beauty. With a population of around 2,800 people, Petra embodies the island's traditional way of life and attracts visitors with its authentic charm. The village is best known for its links to the famous missionary and explorer Junípero Serra, who was born here in 1713 and is said to be the founder of California. His birthplace, now a museum, attracts numerous visitors every year who want to learn more about his life and work. Another impressive building is the 14th century Gothic church of San Pere. The surrounding countryside offers many opportunities for hiking and cycling tours, where visitors can discover the picturesque vineyards and olive groves of the region. It is interesting to note that Petra is a center and pioneer of organic farming in Mallorca. Palma is around 45 km away and the airport is around 50 km away. Petra wonderfully combines the tranquillity of country life with the rich culture and history of Mallorca. This makes it an ideal location for property buyers looking for an authentic and peaceful retreat on the island.
