All about the location

Geography: Friedrichshagen, a place of longing for stressed city dwellers, is an old villa suburb on the north-western shore of Lake Müggelsee. Founded by the famous Prussian King Frederick II in 1753, this district lies on the eastern edge of Berlin and is considered the most attractive residential area in Köpenick. The area is a magnet for discerning people and artists who are looking for peace and quiet, the proximity of the forest and water, but still don't want to miss the connection to the big city. Friedrichshagen has a population of around 19,064 in 2021. Location / traffic: Friedrichshagen is well connected in terms of transportation with its S-Bahn station on Berlin line S 3 (Spandau - Erkner) and the B1/B5 as well as the Berlin freeway ring (A100) can be reached quickly. Alexanderplatz can be reached within 40 minutes via these routes. The proximity to Berlin's BER airport is also significant. The main street of the village is the popular Bölschestraße - it is ideal for strolling, shopping and dining in various restaurants and pubs. The surrounding villages in the direction of Rüdersdorf can be reached with the Schöneich streetcar (line 88). Line 60 takes you to Johannisthal and line 61 provides a connection between Friedrichshagen and Adlershof. Infrastructure: The infrastructure is very well developed, with a grammar school, schools, daycare centers, doctors, banks and plenty of shopping opportunities including organic markets, and there is also plenty of culture here. The popular shopping street Bölschestraße is a particular highlight and everyone's talking about it, with various stores, restaurants and cafés inviting you to take a stroll. A weekly market on the central market square also offers fresh products from the region. Economy: The Friedrichshagen waterworks is located on both sides of the Müggelsee dam. In addition to restaurants and cafés, there are numerous activities to satisfy the hunger for water sports of all kinds. Many sports clubs have their roots here and have a large number of members. Leisure / nature: Thanks to its direct location on the Großer Müggelsee lake, water sports enthusiasts can enjoy many opportunities for surfing, sailing, kiting and motor sports. A variety of art galleries and small and large painters hold openings and training sessions, and libraries organize language courses in the evenings. Friedrichshagen has always remained an artists' village alongside its many sportsmen and women.
